

CURRICULUM VITAE

Professor Dr Norsa'adah Bachok, Malaysia

Professor Dr Norsa'adah Bachok is a medical lecturer at School of Medical Sciences, Universiti Sains Malaysia. Her qualification includes Doctor of Philosophy, Masters of Community Medicine and Bachelor of Medicine & Bachelor of Surgery. Her field of specializations are Public Health, Community Medicine, Biostatistics and Epidemiology, particularly cancer and chronic diseases. She has vast teaching experience of under-graduate and post-graduate programs, which include degrees of Bachelor of Medical Doctor, Bachelor of Health Sciences, Master of Community Medicine, Master of Science in Medical Statistics, Clinical Anatomy, Medical Education & Sport Sciences, Master of Neuroscience, Master of Public Health and Doctor of Public Health. Throughout her career as a lecturer, Prof Norsa'adah had supervised 41 graduated PhD/DrPH/MComMed/MSc students. She was also an external examiner of the thesis for UPM, UM, UKM & UNISZA. As an academician, Prof Norsa'adah has written 128 peer-reviewed articles and 19 medical statistics and medical books. She had also presented numerous papers at home and abroad. She has 19 registered copyrights of literature materials. She is also one of the speakers/facilitators for dozens of Medical Statistics and Research Methodology workshops and became a reviewer of hundreds of international as well as national scientific articles. Prof Norsa'adah has received several awards such as the USM Excellent Service Award, the best oral and poster presentations in conferences, and admirable rewards in the journal publication category.